Cornel is an accountant. He left Romania and settled in the United States. Now he's off on a crazy bike ride. He wants to tour Africa. His story was made public by Father Francisc Dobos of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Bucharest. "A Romanian man is now crossing Africa on a bicycle. Nice story. We not only have Tibi Uşeriu but also Cornel, a Romanian who is crossing Africa from south to north these days. He has already covered 6000 km. He's got more to go. ", wrote the priest on facebook.

No more is known about Cornel. Father Aurelian Herciu , on mission in northern Kenya, met him on his way back from church. They discovered they both spoke Romanian and he decided to give him a hand. He put him up and invited him to dinner at his home.

 A Romanian man is cycling around Africa. A Romanian priest met him and offered him accommodation

"I don't have many details. He is from Romania and lives in the US. She has a 14-year-old son. He is an accountant. He saw a cyclist riding this road on TV and said he could do it too.

I don't know his last name. Left Capetown on January 13. Slept with animals, got rained out. Pitched his tent in the dark to avoid being seen, to avoid the possibility of attack. He told us he was going into the Sahara Desert in three weeks; that was his plan. He met Fr Aurel on the road beyond the Torbi branch, after Fr Aurel had returned from Mass. Father asked him if he had a place to sleep and so he came to the mission. He was deeply impressed that the priest offered him room and board. He doesn't have Facebook and likes sports and philosophy. He also told us about the countries he had been to. That's all I know," the missionary priest told Fr Francisc Dobos.
